"Forever and a Day," highly publicized film with an all-English cast, strode boldly across the local screen this week, taking in three wars and several generations of several families. The cast, containing all the notables who have in past years left England for Hollywood, produced some of the finest acting it has been my privilege to see. Heavily draped with the "there'll always be an England" motif—which, let me hasten to say, is all right with me—the story itself is very entertaining and, I believe, authentic in detail. It is a picture well worth one's time, and I particularly recommend it to natives of the "tight little island." They should enjoy it even more than I did.

On the same bill there was a "stinkeroo," for which the management should not be held to account—they take what they can get. Anyway, this picture—its name, happily, escapes me—features Jinx Falkenberg, the celebrated model. Now, as a model, I'll give the gal a nice hand, and as a "cover girl" she does all right, too. But whoever told her she could sing and dance should be shot for his pains, for it is a gruesome fact that she can do neither. Jinx has been cast as a dancing and singing show-girl in any number of these Hollywood horrors, and with nothing to pull the picture out of the fire except one or two good vaudeville numbers by such sterling performers as The Vagabonds.

With a few noteworthy exceptions, Hollywood's wartime offerings are getting cornier by the minute; at a time when there are important things to say, we are deluged with westerns and third-rate musicals. Most of us do not expect—and never particularly cared for—the "million-dollar extravaganzas," but we would like to see sound stories portrayed by competent people.

In last night's San Jose News I happened on a brief editorial which affected me as things must affect Monty Woolley when he says, in his inimitable manner, "I think I am going to be sick!" It purported to be the report of a rancher on the imported Mexican field hands. He said, in effect, that the boys from south of the border—those from back of beyond, who wore sandals—were good and docile workers, while the slightly more modern fellows from the flat country—who wore shoes—were apt to number trouble-makers among them.

It's the same old story, and not a pretty one. Wherever men are required for hard work, many of those who do the hiring prefer the most ignorant and backward help they can get. Having poorly developed minds and not much given to comparing

Campbell List of Donors to Blood Bank Grows

Campbell donors to the Red Cross blood bank this week were Mrs. Emmy Hild, Mrs. Thelma Whitmore, Mrs. Irma Sanders, Mrs. Doris Wilkerson, Miss Gladys Merrican, R. B. Bishop, E. L. Farnham, Mrs. Bertha Barnett, Mrs. Caroline Green and E. I. Hopkins.

Mrs. Monica Parr, who is in charge of registrations for Campbell says that she has received very cordial response to requests for transportation for donors, who should not drive before or after a blood donation.

She has asked that others who could furnish transportation on occasion register at The What Not, opposite the Campbell Union Grammar school and also any additional donors. But not to register unless qualified to donate and serious about serving.

The local Red Cross sewing unit is vitally in need of white material suitable for pillow slips for fracture pillows.

Mrs. Ray Wood, head of the unit reports that 1466 pillows and 1599 slips have been made and delivered by the faithful workers at the unit, which should be an incentive for every housewife to dig a little deeper for more material. All good parts are salvaged for the pillow cases and trimmings are used for the pillows.

Two tickets to the Campbell Theatre are awaiting Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bryant. Call within a week at Press office.

their lots with those of a more advanced people, they prove to be more tractable and are more easily imposed upon.

Anyone who believes the foregoing remarks are unduly rough on the "boss" need only look to the history of the southern Negro to see how right I am.

Speaking of the Negro, the great superior white race has certainly been making a spectacle of itself recently, and I can imagine with what relish Herr Hitler and Dr. Joseph Goebbels greeted the news of recurrent race riots in the United States. No doubt the wily doctor made capital use of the intelligence; one can almost see the headlines: "United States Not So United; Citizens Kill Each Other In Hand-to-Hand Street Fighting!" A dreary picture to come flashing out of this enlightened continent, and one for which blame can be traced to both sides—more to one, perhaps, than to the other.

No matter which side kills the last human creature in this dizzy World War II, there'll be no real victory anywhere until man learns tolerance for man.

Last Rites for Mrs. Anna Lloyd Held Monday

Mrs. Anna M. Lloyd, a resident of Topeka avenue in the Burbank district, passed away at her home Saturday and farewell services were held Monday from the Roger Darling chapel with interment in the Santa Clara City cemetery.

For a number of years the family resided in Campbell, in the house adjoining the Nelson Grain store, when the husband and father, J. C. Lloyd, was engaged in blacksmithing here, and where they have many friends among the older families.

Preceding her in death were her husband, and sons, Vaughn L. and Merle L. Lloyd, leaving two daughters, Floy L. Morris and Bernice L. Saveker; six grandchildren and five great grandchildren, from whom the pall bearers were chosen.

Mrs. Lydia Brooks left last week for a visit in Hanford with her daughter Mrs. Oscar Hinton and family.

OBSERVATION POST ITEMS

The attendance at the instruction classes for observers was better than many expected. During this busy season many persons made a sacrifice to be there, and for all the seven classes the attendance was more than 240.

Permit me to express my appreciation to everyone who had a part in the classes.

Those present at the last class meeting decided that the contributions for the binoculars should be given to the chief observer, Mrs. Ralph H. Hyde, D. H. Cramer, or leave it at the office of the Campbell Water company, not later than Sept. 1. Please do this at your earliest convenience so that the observers might have the binoculars now when they are badly needed.

We are glad about the new recruits who have come in and welcome anyone else who might find time to serve either weekly or bi-weekly. The duty of observing does not require extensive training, for any person can learn this in a short time. If more people will serve, the easier it is for everybody.

CANNERY HELP NEEDED

The canning and processing of California's vital fruit and vegetable crop is a personal matter this year. It's something you can't safely leave with the "other fellow." For most of the "other fellows" of former years are either in war industries or in the armed forces.

This year, it's your job. Yes, we mean you! If you do not get in and help with the peaches, pears, tomatoes and other fruits and vegetables, there may not be any for you to buy next winter. Maybe you haven't worked in a cannery before, but experience is not necessary and there is much you can do.

Last year, entire communities turned out to help. Many women took time out from home. Business people worked on a part-time basis, putting in four or five hours after their regular duties were finished. Through their efforts there was an ample supply for the armed forces here and overseas and a substantial amount left over for the home market. This year, we must have a repeat performance.

Remember, there are millions of fighting men "out there" whose ability to carry on depends largely upon good food and enough of it. Do you realize that one day's work for the average man or woman will pack enough fruit to serve 1260 men with man-sized helpings?

This battle on the home front is one against time—crops won't wait. You are needed in the front line.

OPA SNOOPING

So the Office of Price Administration now wants us to spy on the corner grocer and haberdasher—if they are still in business—and fill out a "Consumer's Complaint Form," which we are to mail anonymously, at government expense, to the OPA's snoop division in Washington, D. C.

This, as we see it, is a blunder to cap all blunders of the OPA; the crowning insult from a government department which employs 2200 lawyers to draft regulations that don't add up, either in ration points or dollars-and-cents.

If OPA really wants the truth, the people here at home don't blame the farmer or the grocer for their difficulties; they blame the OPA! And if any of those forms are filled out, they will probably curl reaucracy. We don't appreciate the attempt to enlist us as members of an American Gestapo. Our sons are fighting to kill that kind of thing—and we certainly don't intend to be a party to creating it here at home.

Two tickets to the Campbell Theatre are awaiting Mr. and Mrs. Jack Scott. Call within a week at Press office.

Plane Equipment

Forty-seven per cent of the weight of an empty pursuit plane is composed of government-furnished equipment.

Rural Mail Delivery

Credit for the idea of rural mail delivery belongs to Postmaster General John Wanamaker. He was the first to officially suggest rural free delivery in his first annual report for 1891.

Costly Pet

A polar bear that can skate and box can be had for the asking at the army's Aberdeen, Md., proving ground. But it isn't as wonderful as all that—the bear has a monthly food bill of $58.

Lift a Battleship

If all the guns on the Republic P 47 Thunderbolt army fighter plane were fired for one minute, they would release sufficient kinetic (power from motion) energy to lift a 35,000-ton battleship out of the water.

Toxics Repel Insects

New toxic solutions, when used to give deep penetration and high absorption in wood, are effective in repelling the attack of many wood-boring insects, such as the powder post beetle.

Boosts Cotton Exports

Brazil, second biggest producer of cotton in the Western hemisphere, has increased her exports of cotton cloth greatly since the outbreak of the war reduced competition from other world textile producers.

"Why my wife and I are going to work night shift in a cannery this summer"

"First of all, we're not working in a cannery just as a patriotic 'gesture'. We're going to work pretty hard. Because this cannery work isn't child's play. It's an emergency. The crops are ripening fast. The labor shortage is critical. Most important, the Armed Forces have asked for about 60% of the entire California pack of fruits and vegetables.

"We're going to work night shift because, from what we hear, that's when help is most needed. Apparently the canneries must operate at night—besides days—so the fruit can be canned before it spoils. It may inconvenience us a little, working nights, but we feel it's a very small sacrifice compared to that made by the boys at the front. We want to feel we've done something to get the right kind of food to our fighting men."

* * * * *

Can you take a challenge? This is one. This job of canning food for fighting men. This is war work. This is an emergency. This is work that calls for 75,000 people to do it—working full-time, working part-time. But working. If you can work night shift, by all means do so. That's where this battle for food can be won or lost. Won't you help by registering now?

You are urgently needed on the night shift right now.
Don't wait. Help save the fruit before it spoils.

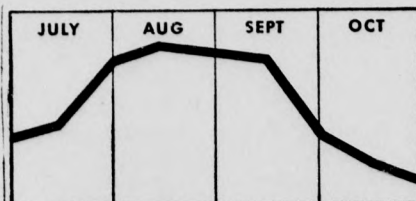

Men and boys do general cannery work—handling crates, stacking, loading, making boxes. Some men operate machinery. No experience necessary.

Child Care Centers, under competent supervision, are available at or near most canneries. Your children will receive proper care while you work.

The pay is good. You will be paid regular, standard wages, with a bonus for overtime. Wage rates are given in detail at the right.

This chart shows when you are most needed—at the season's peak. Register now. This will help the U.S.E.S. to know just how many workers are available.

Women take to the work very easily... find it somewhat like going from their own kitchens to a larger one. The work isn't glamorous, but it is interesting, and above all, it's vital.

This is hard to believe, but it's true: one average day's work you do canning fruits or vegetables will provide enough servings to feed 1260 fighting men.

Work full-time if possible, work part-time at least

Who is needed. Every man, woman and every boy and girl, 16 or over. Boys and girls of 16 and 17 must have a Work Permit from their school department.

When. August and September are the "peak" months. Try to work full-time if possible, part-time or on your vacation at least. Every day counts.

Kind of work—women. Women and girls work mainly on a piece-work basis, sorting, peeling, cutting or canning. Some jobs are paid by the hour.

Men. Men and boys do general manual and mechanical work and are usually paid by the hour.

Hours. On a normal straight-time basis: 10 hours per day for men; 8 hours per day for women, after which overtime rates apply. Adequate relief periods. Meal period follows each 5 hours work.

Pay. Women on piece-work, in a group, are guaranteed a weekly average earning, for the whole group, of at least 80 cents an hour. Many workers average more. No piece-worker may receive less than 45 cents an hour for hours worked in any one day. Some jobs for women are not adapted to piece-work. These are paid at the rate of 70 cents an hour. If a woman is promoted to supervisory duties, she is paid 85 cents an hour.

Men are paid 85 cents an hour for general work. Higher pay for jobs requiring special skills or responsibility. Minimum rates for highest paid hourly work for men is $1.15 per hour. Boys and girls between 16 and 18 earn same rates as adults.

Transportation. Cannery work is officially recognized as essential to the war effort. Local ration boards have authority to allot extra gasoline to cannery workers. Free parking at practically all canneries.

Social Security Numbers. If you intend working and have no Social Security card, go to nearest post office and secure one. This will save both time and trouble.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

Love At First Flight by Charles Spalding and Otis Carney.

If laughing is an ordeal for you—if you have had an operation lately—if you do not wish to be amused—then by all means do not dare to even as much as look at this book. The trail that the book "See Here, Private Hargrove" blazed is a fair example of what "Love At First Flight" will do for those who read it.

Lester Dowd, Naval Air Cadet, the object of attention in this yarn it but one of the hundreds of thousands of our American boys who are leaving home and enlisting in the Naval Aviation field. After following Cadet Dowd through his endeavors of trying to enlist, watching him as he is put through his preliminary training after he was eventually accepted and flying with him while he was working for his wings, one can easily visualize the actual experiences of the boys who are away from home trying for their wings.

Perhaps Cadet Dowd's amusing detailed account of his months in Naval Air will help in a small degree to quiet the anxious hearts of mothers and fathers and wives and sweethearts. It is difficult to give an account of what the bulk of the book is about. But it is simple to say that it is funny, and truthfully it is. The style in which it is written speeds the action along on wings and in a very brief time the reader has completed the story and is dying to tell someone else about it.

It is a small book and a couple of hours in an evening will finish it for you and you will be ready to read it aloud to anyone who will listen.

Deer Like Dynamite
Dynamite-eating deer are common in the Adirondacks, the New York conservation department reports. The sound of blasting and the rumbling of heavy construction machinery, in fact, attract the animals instead of frightening them. Bucks and does seem to know they will find the explosive on road-building jobs. Deer relish dynamite because of the saltpeter it contains.

Get What You Pay
By using good seeding methods, the amount of clover and alfalfa seed required per acre can be reduced considerably. Agronomists say that five to six pounds of red clover, six to eight pounds of scarified sweet clover, and eight pounds of clover-alfalfa mixture per acre is sufficient if the soil conditions are favorable for legume production.

THE YEAR'S FIND

Anita Ellis, who sings on Jack Carson's CBS show Wednesday nights, has been picked by star-maker Vick Knight as his singing discovery of the year. Knight discovered Dinah Shore when he was Eddie Cantor's producer, catapulted Ginny Simms to stardom on her own program, and before that was Kate Smith's producer.

Garter Snake

Garter snakes are among the commonest of our native reptiles. The quick, darting forked red tongue gathers many insects for food, which together with frogs, toads, salamanders and worms, forms its principal diet. It is perfectly harmless and of great economic value. It hibernates below the frost line in soft mud or sand and emerges in early spring after being awakened by warming suns.

Measure Noise

Determining the amount of applause of radio studio audiences is only one of the many tasks performed by electrical noise or sound-level meters.

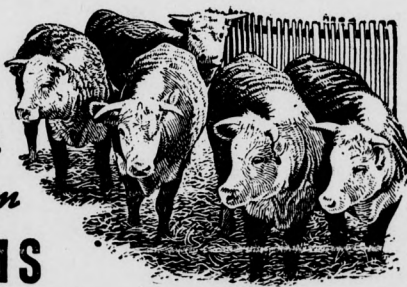

Cliff Dwellers

Ninety per cent of the citizens of Copenhagen, Denmark, lived in apartments. To this fact is credited Copenhagen's reputation for spending more per capita for amusements than any city in Europe. It is a city of diners-out, gayer than Paris. People find pleasure in sitting at tables. Even the theaters have semicircular shelves on the backs of the seats, with "table service" uninterrupted by the show.

Woman Can Be President

There was nothing in the Constitution which prohibited a woman from becoming President because of her sex, even before the adoption of the Nineteenth amendment.

Ice Follies Still Draws Crowds

For the first time a truly authentic dance of the glamorous and fabled South Sea isle of Tahiti has been translated to skating and is interpreted by beautiful Bess Ehrhardt, as a featured presentation in the Ice Follies of 1943 now showing at Winterland in San Francisco.

Miss Ehrhardt's appearance in the San Francisco engagement marks her return to the ice after a year's absence spent in her home in nearby Hillsborough.

During her leave, Miss Ehrhardt made an intensive research into the native dance lore of the Tahitians and the result is an authentic dance translated to skates in the best and inimitable Ehrhardt manner.

Assisted by a bevy of lovely Folliettes attired in startling and dazzling costumes, Miss Ehrhardt skates through a myriad of intricate routines climaxed in a rousing finish.

Bess Ehrhardt in private life the wife of Roy Shipstad, star and co-producer of the Ice Follies, is a native of Superior, Wisconsin. She has been associated with the Ice Follies since the founding of the company seven years ago. She began as a chorus member, progressed rapidly into the ranks of the featured performers, and rose to stardom to become one of the great favorites of the big ice palaces of the nation.

As a special convenience, so that patrons may fully avail themselves of transportation under wartime schedule, the nightly performances start at 8 p. m. instead of 8:30 as in other years.

Sgt. Theodore Cutting of the Fitzsimmons General hospital, Denver, Colo., who has been here for a few days, is leaving today for his post. His mother, Mrs. F. H. Cutting, who is now at home recovering from a serious operation is resting and progressing satisfactorily.

Lt. Keesling Pilots 29-Ton Liberator

Representatives from 39 of the 48 states are members of the first class of B-24 student pilots at the Liberal, Kansas, Army Air Field.

Among commissioned pilots learning to fly massive 29-ton Liberator bombers at this school is Lt. Walter Reynolds Keesling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Keesling of Hamilton avenue and San Jose-Los Gatos road.

Lt. Keesling is a graduate of an advanced twin-engine flying school and already wears the coveted wings of an army pilot, but the four-engine dreadnaught he now flies on a round the clock schedule in all types of weather is a huge stride from anything he ever flew before.

At the conclusion of his training at Liberal Army Air Field, according to Colonel Arthur L. Bump, commanding officer of the newest unit in the vast pilot-production program, Keesling will be rated as a first pilot and then be ready for his next and last training stop—an overseas training unit for final work on tactical missions.

This Month's STAR RECIPE

By BETTY BARCLAY

Griddle Cakes are for cold weather, eh? Not now, my friends! Not with bacon, ham, sausages and chops rationed. Today griddle cakes are an all-year luxury.

I am presenting this month's "Star" to the following novel griddle cake recipe. A mighty nutritious, very tasty, and economical morning main-dish is in store for those of my readers who try it.

Cereal Griddle Cakes

1 1/4 cups sifted flour
2 1/4 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
3/4 cup milk
4 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening

Pour boiling water over cereal and let stand 15 minutes. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Combine eggs, milk, and cereal, and mix well; add gradually to flour, beating only until smooth. Add shortening. Bake on hot greased griddle. Serve with maple-flavored syrup. Makes 1 1/2 dozen griddle cakes.

MAIL EARLY TO MARINES

The six-week period from Sept. 15, through Oct. 31, has been designated as the time during which all Christmas mail should be posted for Marine Corps personnel on overseas duty. Arrangements have been made with the post office department for special handling of Christmas letters and packages mailed during this period in order to get them to men overseas before the holidays.

To facilitate this effort, senders are requested to mark their packages "Christmas parcel" and to pay special attention to the addressing and packaging requirements.

For the purposes of Christmas mail, the term "overseas" personnel means men who receive their mail through a Fleet post office at San Francisco, New York or Seattle. Letters and parcels should contain the name and address of sender, the name, rank or rating of addressee and the unit to which he is assigned, or name of the ship or Fleet post office through which the mail is to be routed.

Two tickets to the Campbell Theatre are awaiting Mr. and Mrs. David Ribble. Call within a week at Press office.

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

Since the Saturday Evening Post appeared a few days back with that colorful spread on the life and career of Governor Earl Warren, the political Rialto has started buzzing anew with reports that Mr. Warren will permit his name to be entered in the California primary next May as a candidate for the G. O. P. presidential nomination.

Governor Warren, however, is sagaciously silent on the subject—and has said nothing to indicate that he has altered position since his statement of some weeks ago that he was not a candidate and did not expect to become a candidate.

The Warren boom, if it may be called that, is more likely the work of his friends than of Governor Warren, although he wouldn't be quite human if he objected to having his name bandied about among presidential prospects.

Even among the Governor's friends, there are several schools of thought on the matter. One group argues that if a deadlock occurred in the Republican Convention between Willkie, Dewey and Bricker that Mr. Warren might well emerge as the compromise candidate—and that he should consequently take back a California delegation pledged to support him.

A second group argues that while Mr. Warren has just an outside chance to become the party's 1944 nominee for President, he has an excellent chance, if he doesn't buck the top contenders, to end up as the nominee for Vice-President. This contingent contends that under the circumstances it isn't wise to risk offending Willkie and Dewey by competing with them for the California delegation.

Then there's a third group which figures the Republican nominee can't win in 1944, due to war conditions, and that if Governor Warren stays put now he will be "a natural" in 1948, when G. O. P. hopes may be much brighter. Some of the boys of this persuasion, however, are of the opinion that Governor Warren could still accept the nomination for Vice President next year, if it offered, without harming himself—as the top of the ticket usually takes the heat, while his running mate has a good opportunity to meet the people and isn't held responsible if the election goes against him.

In addition to these three schools of thought, there's a fourth which holds that the people elected Mr. Warren as Governor because the state needed vigorous leadership—and that he should stay with the job and refuse to be diverted. Mr. Warren, incidentally is said to share this opinion and his close advisers say it is the biggest factor in his reluctance to become a candidate for any other office, even for President!

Mrs. Frankenstein's Monster

This is what your post-war gas range will NOT be like! But "Mrs. Frankenstein's" creation struck a humorous note in an otherwise serious contest recently conducted by the Pacific Coast Gas Association for gas company employees. They submitted more than 400 suggestions for new "gadgets", designs and features, now being studied by manufacturers for their practicability. Although contestants reported home-makers are unanimous in their acclaim of pre-war "certified performance" ranges, the entire gas industry is now giving thought to making them even finer and more convenient if possible after the war, according to Clifford Johnstone of San Francisco, managing director of the association.

Betty Barclay's Jelly Shelf

RIPE BLACKBERRY JELLY

(Makes about 11 medium glasses)

4 cups berry juice
7 1/2 cups sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare juice, crush thoroughly or grind about 3 quarts fully ripe berries. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. (If berries lack tartness, substitute 1/4 cup lemon juice for 1/4 cup prepared juice.)

Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once.

your RED CROSS calls for help!

THOUSANDS OF NURSE'S AIDES, REGISTERED NURSES and HOME NURSES ARE NEEDED NOW!

There is a serious shortage of women with nursing skill in Northern California—a shortage that could become dangerous to community health, according to the American Red Cross. Look at these figures and see why... Only 3,000 Nurse's Aides have been trained. 10,000 are needed. 13,000 Home Nurses are enrolled. 100,000 are needed. To overcome this three things must be done...

1 Trained nurses are desperately needed. They are needed for the army and navy hospitals overseas. Registered nurses now in retirement should report for duty now and make possible release of trained nurses now on civilian duty here.

2 Nurse's Aides must be recruited from the homes and from other full time employment. By doing minor duties, such as taking temperatures, making beds, assisting in dressings and helping apply casts and slings, they can release graduate nurses for more important duties.

3 Home Nurses are needed to take care of the sick and injured members of their own families in their own home and thus prevent an added burden upon the already crowded hospitals.

The American Red Cross reports the need for 10,000 Nurse's Aides for service in the hospitals of Northern and Central California

WHO...
If you are between 18 and 50 years of age you can become a Nurse's Aide in any of 80 hospitals in 66 communities.

WHAT...
To become a Nurse's Aide you must prepare by doing 80 hours of preliminary training in hospital courses prepared by the Red Cross. You then must give a minimum of three hours a week during the next year.

WHY...
These hours you give become life saving hours because you relieve the strain on our overworked nurses in hospitals, clinics and other health agencies.

This is the critical period of the war both here and in foreign fields. The home front must make all out sacrifices just as our fighting men are doing. There is a challenge to Health here at home. Step in and meet this challenge now. If you are a Registered Nurse now retired—step forward and get into active service again. If you can spare a few hours a day, enroll in the Red Cross courses in Nurse's Aide or Home Nursing. This nursing job must be done. Hundreds are enrolling now. Do your share—boost this enrollment into the thousands
